AUSTRALIAN SINGLES REPORT

ASH LONDON: TOP OF THE POPS

ASH LONDON

From MCM copywriter to host of a nightly show named after her, Ash London has earned her place in radio. And she's using the medium to spread an important message.

Sitting across from Ash London, it's hard to believe that she hosts a nightly radio show with her name on it. In an industry where the spotlight is often more on colourful personalities than great tunes, the 31-year-old is as warm and authentic in person as she is on her music-focused Hit Network show. This is a woman who knows who she is and what she's here to do, and she's flipping the script on radio, in more ways than one.

Pointing out the glitter curtain that hangs on the glass window in the studio - crediting the touch of fabulousness to two of her team members - the 31-year-old radiates authenticity. It's a word that comes up a lot during our chat, but it feels right for her.

"I'm not the kind of person who can get on air and fake it and talk about something I don't care about."

"Whereas I care deeply about music, and I love it and I get to talk about my favourite thing."

"Also, I think I'm just not in a stage of my life where I'm willing or interested in talking about me and talking about my life. I think other people do that better. For now, I know I'm very intentional about what I want to do and that is to help people fall in love with music and build a really strong music community in Australia, and champion Australian music. I think that really sets me apart, so it puts me in a good position."

London is well aware that the audience isn't tuning in for her personality - they're there for the music. "It's something we always say here, if I've not got something interesting to say we play a song," she adds.

But it's the music she plays that further cements her authenticity. From hosting The Loop on Eleven alongside Scott Tweedie, to Take 40 Australia (and its reincarnation, the Shazam Top 20) with Angus O'Loughlin and now Ash London LIVE, she has a long history of bringing the latest music to anyone who wants to know about it.

"I firmly believe that Australia just makes the best music in the world, we're the best," she says. "I love it. I love Australian music and I say it all the time, 'If we don't champion it, well, who the hell's gonna do it?'."

"triple j have had to carry the burden for far too long, and have done an incredible job. Where would we be without the platform that they've given Australian music?" London makes it very clear that it's time for radio networks to take more of a risk on local music, particularly Aussie pop. She leads by example too, having everyone from Meg Mac to Vance Joy to rockers Kingswood on her show.

"There's a whole commercial world out there. My view is that, kids are cooler than we ever give them credit for, they're all over cool music. The internet exists. We either play the boring stuff that everyone's playing and we play them the music that they can expect to hear, or we can actually go back to a time when people in the music world were tastemakers, and setting trends, and taking risks. We have so many Australian artists to choose from."

"A good song is a good song. I think it's us that need[s] to get over it. We've been able to play some amazing music that probably wouldn't ever get a spin otherwise; I'm proud of the music we play and I'm proud the network lets us play it."

But between the ruthless pressure of ratings, financial expectations and the ever-looming fear that the next person is waiting in the wings to steal your seat, how does a radio host stay so true to something they believe in?

London believes the evening timeslot gives her more flexibility, and lets her fly under the radar in a way.

“No one's riding my arse. That's the beauty of a night show – they kinda let you do what you want to do and if you mess it up, they'll clip you on the ears. I've got great support around me, and a great content director, and assistant conductor. I think I wouldn't cope with a survey day coming around and being grilled over every percentage point.”

But that flexibility comes from a trust earned through hard work – as much as London is quick to put it, at least partially, down to luck.

From starting in radio as a copywriter and a content creator at MCM, London has come full circle and earned her place at Hit.

“I was in a great position when I was at MCM. I was doing the interviews and they [were] cutting my voice out of it and putting their talent in, which is awesome because I got to learn how to do interviews without any real consequences. I got to make mistakes and that was really lucky in that respect.

“That meant that by the time that I did it on a public stage, on radio and on TV, I wasn't scared of the artists. I knew I was good at what I did. I knew that I was presenting something different and that we could have a really respectful relationship, even if it's just for four minutes.”

Just because she's created a show she loves, doesn't mean the hard work stops now. The evolving nature of radio, fuelled particularly by the medium's competitive yet complementary relationship with the internet, is keeping London on her toes – and she doesn't mind one bit.

“Before, you'd wait til the labels were servicing the music before you play it – but now it's out, [on] SoundCloud, Spotify, and Shazam, and everything. The choices are endless. It's amazing.”

But London knows her night timeslot will always play an important role in how radio listeners discover music.

“At the end of the day, we entertain the masses and people are always gonna be in their cars or always gonna be driving home, they're not always gonna want to be proactive about their music choices. That's why I take my job really seriously.

“For many people, radio still is the way they discover new music. You can't forget that. We live in a city, in an entertainment company, we're on the forefront of everything we know, what's going on – most people don't live like that. It's really easy to get stuck in this bubble of ‘Oh, radio's dead’. Radio's not dead, no way.”

STRIP THAT DOWN

Liam Payne | EMI

Liam Payne locks down the TMN Hot 100 again as another One Direction member begins to slip. 'Strip That Down' ft. Quavo now has six unbroken weeks at the top – that's more than The Chainsmokers & Coldplay's 'Something Just Like This' (5 weeks) and James Arthur's 'Say You Won't Let Go' (5 weeks), making it one of the top performing singles of the year.

There are two new entrants in the Top 5 this week and both are new peaks. P!NK rockets to #2 after 'What About Us' debuted at #9 the previous week. 'Your Song' by Rita Ora jumps in at #5 (a new peak), following its three-week race to the Top 10.

Sam Hunt must wait another week for a Top 10 appearance after remaining steady at #11 with 'Body Like A Back Road'. As it was at the start, the entire national Nova network is still steering the track at commercial, spinning twice the amount of both individual KIIS stations.

#1 MOST ADDED TO RADIO

FRIENDS

Justin Bieber & Bloodpop | UMA

Justin Bieber adds another #1 Most Added to his repertoire this week with 'Friends', his collaboration with Bloodpop. It scored adds to the Hit Regional Network, Ash London Live and most importantly, across the board on the Nova Network – which proved to be the deciding factor after the track was neck and neck with Miley Cyrus' 'Younger Now' for much of the week.

It's the first new chart success for Bieber since the two successful long runs with 'Despacito' and his feature on DJ Khaled's 'I'm The One'.

Portugal. The Man enjoy a second week in the chart with 'Feel It Still' holding fast at #3. Little Mix & CNCO's 'Reggaeton Lento (Remix)' takes #4, capitalising on being an across the board addition to Nova.

#1 NEW SINGLE RELEASE

LOOK WHAT YOU MADE ME DO

Taylor Swift | UMA

Following a surprise announce on Thursday, Taylor Swift's 'Look What You Made Me Do' broke the internet on Friday afternoon, and is a shoo-in for Most Added. Minus the long-awaited return of New Taylor Swift (RIP Old Taylor), there are a few heavy hitters cracking onto commercial radio this week. Aloe Blacc's 'King Is Born' is a catchy cut with both alternative and commercial potential, while The Killers' expectedly anthemic 'Run For Cover' ought to inspire more than just contemporary rock radio.

More country crossover greatness comes in the form of Missy Lancaster's 'Forget' as well as Tori Forsyth's 'Grave Robber's Daughter' which will hopefully see some commercial love.

RADIO WRAP

Jetting up the Hot 100 chart this week is Avicii's 'Without You' ft. Sandro Cavazza. A move of 37 places from #54 to #17 sees it become his first Top 20 single since 'Waiting For Love' from 2015's Stories.

'Garbage Bin' by Tiny Little Houses re-enters at the top of the Breakers chart following some love from triple j, though it's Wolf Alice's 'Don't Delete The Kisses' getting most of triple j's love, sitting firmly at #1 on their Spins Chart (helping them to debut at #1 on the Alt Hot 100).

A One Direction member returns to the top of a spins chart, with Liam Payne's 'Strip That Down' returning to the top of Nova's list. Meanwhile, the new Justin Bieber & BloodPop collaboration, 'Friends' is already the most spun track on KIIS.

NEW SINGLE SPOTLIGHT

GRAVE ROBBER'S DAUGHTER

Tori Forsyth | UMA

'Grave Robber's Daughter' is the first single to be lifted from Tori Forsyth's highly anticipated debut album. Written by Tori on a plane between Nashville and Texas, the song observes the world around us and the pressures of power and social norms.

Produced by ARIA, APRA and Golden Guitar Winner Shane Nicholson, 'Grave Robber's Daughter' offers a taste of what to expect from Tori's eclectic mix of self-penned songs, set for release early 2018.

NEW SINGLE SPOTLIGHT

IGNITION

Rojdar ft. JAYS | HUS/UMA

Having wowed crowds touring the country as part of the national Good Life festival, sharing the stage with the likes of Martin Garrix and Macklemore & Ryan Lewis, 20-year-old Melbourne DJ and producer Rojdar now releases his debut single 'Ignition' featuring Jays.

A rework of the classic R Kelly track, Rojdar tapped former X Factor contestant Brock Jays - who appeared on the show as part of boy group What About Tonight - for vocals on the summer-tinged tropical house track. Jays' mentor Adam Lambert has already endorsed the track, posting it to his 1 million Instagram followers.

'Ignition' debuted at #13 on the iTunes Dance chart and was picked up by New Music Friday on Spotify Italy. Catch Rojdar returning to the Good Life stage in Sydney, Brisbane and Melbourne this September.

NEW SINGLE SPOTLIGHT

GHOST

Benny Walker | IND

Winner of the 'Best Aboriginal Act of the Year' at 2016's The Age Music Victoria Awards, Yorta Yorta singer-songwriter Benny Walker is the real deal. His lyrics and epic tales of love and loss are mixed with his passion for people, the land, summer vibes and grooves that go deep. And latest single 'Ghost' is no exception.

'Ghost' is an "ode to all the greedy, power-hungry, shortsighted people trying to fuck up our world...this one's for the," says Benny Walker of the track.

Co-written by Benny and ARIA Award-winning producer Jan Skubiszewski, who also produced Benny's forthcoming six track EP Undercover.
