AUSTRALIAN SINGLES REPORT

THE RUBENS: MILLION DOLLAR MEN

THE RUBENS

ARIA-nominated, sold-out shows and winners of APRA's Rock Work of the Year Award. Even with all that success, The Rubens have still managed to maintain a low profile on social media - at least compared to their contemporaries. But make no mistake, The Rubens are back.

Words by Elise Ferrari

Renowned for leapfrogging Major Lazer and Kendrick Lamar to claim victory in triple j's Hottest 100 in 2016, The Rubens make a welcome reappearance this week with new single 'Million Man'.

'Million Man' clears one of the biggest hurdles faced by bands returning with new music - remaining fresh enough that people pay attention, without too much of a departure from their signature sound.

Brothers Sam and Elliott Margin have co-written most of the tracks on the album - which Sam says has a gospel and almost acapella feel to it. The album will drop sometime in April or May next year.

Before the boys head to New York to put the finishing touches on their full length, TMN spoke to Elliott about 'Million Man', the new studio they recorded in and the influence of new the record's new collaborators, Wilder Zoby and Little Shalimar (aka Torbitt Schwartz).

The new single is a fresh sound for The Rubens. How did the song come about and what is a "Million Man" exactly?

The song itself came about really easily and quickly, which is a rare thing. A lot of the time we labour over a song before we get it to a place where we're happy with it, but this one didn't have that problem. It wasn't a conscious decision for us to go for a new sound - it never has been when we write new music. We kind of just see what we come up with and what's exciting and interesting for us.

The "Million Man" in our song is someone who is living their life in pursuit of pleasure, sometimes debauchery, and kind of feeling bad about it. They question their decisions and whether they are doing right by themselves. In the end they embrace who they are and shed that god damn shame because life is for living.

You've been working out of a newly-created studio in Sydney's west. How important is a change in environment in fostering the creativity required for a new album?

Any change in environment when we're writing new music can be really helpful in getting us excited and creative. It won't necessarily change the sound of what we're writing (recording by the beach didn't make us sound like Jack Johnson), but it helps to get us feeling good about pursuing new territory and experimenting with ideas.

Working in the [ex-world war communications] bunker was awesome for us because it was such a relaxed environment and so close to where we grew up. We could have friends and family drop by and hear what we were working on as we were recording, which helped to make us feel less isolated [and] more sane.

Recording by the beach didn't make us sound like Jack Johnson

What was the most exciting part of bringing "Million Man" to life? Did you do anything differently or play with any new instruments or technology?

I think the most exciting thing about bringing 'Million Man' to life was seeing what Wilder [Zoby] and Torbitt [Schwartz] could bring to the song as producers. The demo already had a lot of bounce and energy that we hadn't really done in a song before, [and] Wilder and Torbitt had roots in hip hop with Run The Jewels, so it was an exciting combo.

Obviously you enjoyed plenty of radio success with "Hoops". The lines between what each station plays are a little more blurred now (e.g. Vera Blue now gets played on the Hit Network). Do you think that works in The Rubens' favour?

It's cool to see commercial stations supporting Australian artists and playing their tracks. Every artist wants their music to be heard by as many people as possible, so when artists cross over and get support from both commercial and non-commercial stations it can only be good.

What can we expect from The Rubens in 2018?

2018 for us is touring, album number three released and more touring. We cannot wait.

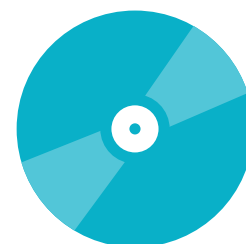

2015 LP Hoops debuted at #2 on the ARIA Albums Chart.

Hoops' title track peaked at #18 on the TMN Hot 100 and #9 on the ARIA Singles Chart.

'Hold Me Back' reached #1 on the Hot 100 Australian Chart in February 2016.

The Rubens won an ARIA Award in 2013, taking home Rock Work Of The Year for their single 'My Gun'.

#1 HOT 100

PERFECT

Ed Sheeran | WMA

Ed Sheeran's 'Perfect' has displaced Sam Smith's 'Too Good At Goodbyes' after jumping 59 frames in four weeks. Overall, Sheeran's four Divide singles ('Castle On The Hill', 'Shape Of You', 'Galway Girl' and 'Perfect') have spent 10 weeks at the top of the chart since 'Castle' hit #1 in January - that's a quarter of the year so far!

If you've been listening to Nova lately, you might have heard the sounds of Kita Alexander's 'Hotel'. With a #52 debut on the Hot 100 this week, the Aussie singer lands one spot below Taylor Swift's 'Gorgeous'. In the past, Alexander has had a hard time settling in on the chart. Her track 'Like You Want To' only made it as far as #98 before dropping off the next week.

#1 MOST ADDED TO RADIO

GORGEOUS

Taylor Swift | UMA

In the tightest week of additions for some time, Taylor Swift has once again seized her rightful place at the forefront of commercial radio with new track 'Gorgeous'.

It was a three horse race in the end, with Guy Sebastian's 'Bloodstone' and Liam Payne's 'Bedroom Floor' all gaining similar additions throughout the week. However, the difference ultimately came down to a number of Nova and commercial Hit stations that opted for Taylor over the others.

Rita Ora has bounced back after 'Your Song' with new track 'Anywhere'. In fact, the singer features twice in the Top 10 this week, with a guest appearance on Avicii's cut 'Lonely Together'. Nova added the track across the board as did the ACE Radio Network.

#1 NEW SINGLE RELEASE

WHATEVER IT TAKES

Imagine Dragons | UMA

Once again, commercial is overflowing with options this week. Imagine Dragons lead the way with new cut 'Whatever It Takes', the follow-up to smash hit 'Thunder'. It peaked at #3 on the Hot 100 and was the group's fourth single to crack the Top 10 on the chart.

Marshmello's 'Silence' ft. Khalid gets an official radio service this week after circulating for some weeks. It's already been doing the rounds on a number of commercial networks and currently sits at #44 on the Hot 100. Undoubtedly, the addition of Khalid on the track will turn heads as his single 'Young, Dumb & Broke' continues its rise at radio.

Australian dance trio PNAU have launched 'Go Bang'. If past hit 'Chameleon' is anything to go by (#9 on the Hot 100), the track has the potential to be the jam of the summer.

RADIO WRAP

Commercial radio networks have remained relatively steadfast this week. KIIS has put their weight behind Justin Bieber and Bloodpop's 'Friends' in favour of P!NK's 'What About Us', which slid another 131 spins overall.

Peking Duk's latest effort 'Let You Down' ft. Icona Pop is travelling smoothly at commercial. The track's spin count increased by 175% this week, landing the boys at #12 from #49. 'Let You Down' is now Peking Duk's fourth most successful single on chart and also brings them up to #1 spot on the Australian Chart this week.

ASTRONAUT

Mansionair | MUSHROOM

Mansionair present their brand new single – 'Astronaut (Something About Your Love)', a genre-splitting shot from the soul; as playful as it is a sincere exploration of loneliness and distant affections. Producer and guitarist Lachlan Bostock describes the creation of the beginning suite of otherworldly harmonics: "We shoved a microphone deep inside a piano and recorded all the atmospheric noises that came out. Like what I imagined an astronaut felt as if he was looking back at Earth." The juxtaposition between singer Jack Froggatt's intimate vocal delivery and the geographic stretch of Mansionair's production makes them one of the country's most intriguing bands. Watching it come to life live on stage really is a wonder to behold.
